REINVENT THE COLOR WHEEL

Customize your nails to your heart's content. With the makeover of CND (the brand formerly known as Creative Nail Design) come 50 base colors and 15 "effects"—think sparkles, shimmers, and pearls—that give you 800-plus options. Get a preview at cnd.com.

Pretty Life

HAVE PURE SKIN-TENTIONS

Through your brows, picture the Nails—aka Fran Drescher—as an eye for goodness. Her subsequent career: suffice to say, to develop a sophisticated, rather in-demand line with eco-friendly packaging ($16 to $32). A portion of the proceeds goes to Drescher's Cancer Research Movement.

CHECK IT OUT

For its sunny eyes on the skin of a parent, try Natural London's Eyelid Eye Goldener in Tau to Me, $7.20. The intense blue (just check mark, please) diffuses into the prettiest, most ethereal of colors when you stroke it across your lids.

Beauty List

The one-to-do list you'll want to do.

YAMMIT UP

Just when you thought the Twilight phenomenon couldn't get any bigger, along comes Twilight Beauty. Debuting November 20 (it does, New Moon, the second movie in the series), the makeup is, well, bloody lovely. All set, Luna Twilight Color Palette in Bella, $28, and Luna Twilight Eyeconic Fatale Lip Glaze in Fluid Pink, Surrender, $20.

TRY THE DAILY GRIND

Chicago Super Natural Powder Makeup SPF 25, Mineral Rich Formula, $32.50, is a fresh, multi-use eye powder foundation. The compact comes with an intense "Lunar" brush, with each swirl, releases encapsulated moisturizers into the emerging powder.

HAVE ONE HANDY

October's Hand Cream Bouquet is clearly meant as a holiday gift companion (the $40 boxed set is worth $60), but we suspect that those decadent Shea Butter, Wang Tang-Roses, Rosebud, and Fragrances salves will never make it out your front door—except, perhaps, in your purse, gym bag, or glove compartment.
